His body was taken to Lawrence on Wednesday for interment. Spofford was well known in this town having worked for a number of years at the fish market of T. J. Farmer. ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

ENGLISHMEN WIN GAME.

BOSTON, Oct. 17—The South End ball ground presented a somewhat different appearance than usual yesterday with a goal post over the home plate and another out in the center garden. Long white chalk lines marked the penalty and in touch lines and on the bleachers instead of fans calling for a home run was a multitude of football enthusiasts encouraging the efforts of the All Massachusetts team and impartially applauding the fine team work and sound defence of the visiting Pilgrims, the cream of English amateur association players.

The purpose of the Englishmen's visit to Boston was to show the fine points of the game and this they certainly did. With the English team and a tower of strength between the goal posts was Sir Charles Kirkpatrick. Lady Kirkpatrick accompanied her husband and was an interested spectator in the grand stand. Over 30 0 people were present when the English team, led by Capt. Milnes ran out on the field amid loud cheering for their preliminary practice. They wore white jerseys and blue trunks. A few moments later the Massachusetts team trotted on the field looking trig in their new suits of blue jerseys and white trunks with a large white "L" (which might have stood for league) on the jersey. There was one change in the league team, Crabbe of Lynn taking the plate of Thackera of Harvard.

Capt. MacGregor won the toss and chose to play with the sun at his back. Referee Pollitt of Lawrence blew his whistle and Sir Ernest Cecil Cochrane, who has charge of the Pilgrim team, kicked off toward the Boston goal.

Almost before the home players were aware that the game had started, Woodward, the crack centre of the visitors, sent a low ground shot goalwards, which McDermott never made an effort to save, so sudden was the attack.

Boston kicked off and invaded Pilgrim territory, but Milnes checked the advance. The Pilgrim forwards then had their inning and a hot shot by Raine was cleared by McDermott. A few moments later Bryning had a try for goal but shot behind.

Play was transferred to the visitors end, Offers having a fine run and forced a corner off Storey which was cleared.

A dashing run by Ross and J. MacDonald was stopped by Storey, who tripped Ross about to shoot for goal.

The English forwards then collared the ball, Woodward, the crack centre, having a fine run, which McClusky stopped. A second later Barnsdale just missed the goalposts by inches, the ball going behind.

The goal kick was caught by Offers who initiated a fine run and ended with a beautiful shot which Sir Charles saved in a brilliant manner

The play for the rest of the first half was of an even nature, a vigorous attack by the Pilgrims being repulsed by McDermott and McClusky. Ross had several good runs and once when in a position to shoot was tripped by Storey, a second offence. Pollitt, however, did not see it. Offers was prominent, too, in the right wing with good runs and shots which tested Sir Charles abilities. Toward the close of the half Raine almost scored with a fine shot across the goal mouth. The half time whistle blew with the score 1-0 in favor of the Pilgrims.

SECOND HALF.

At the beginning of the second half a combined run by the English forwards put their team 2 up, a beautiful pass by Coopland to Woodward enabling the latter to head the ball past McDermott. This goal together with those scored by Fletcher and Coopland later appeared offside and Woodward the star centre of the English team admitted this after the game, and told Referee Pollitt so. He intimated as much that Pollitt didn't know the rules.

The English forwards were going at a great pace and in a twinkling Bryning scored goal number 3 with a beautiful shot across the goal, which completely beat McDermott.

The home forwards then took a hand in the game and gave Sir Charles and the backs a hot time for a few minutes, a brilliant shot by Ross being saved in the nick of time.

Pilgrims attacked but Crabbe broke up the run; then Gillespie had a fine chance to score but shot wildly.

Pilgrim forwards made toward McDermott's goal and Fletcher beat him for the fourth time, followed by a fifth goal a few second later by Coopland. The Englishmen continued to press but McAllister and McClusky cleared time and again and on several occasions the English players got offside, Bryning particularly. Woodward was pulled up by the former being offside. McAllister had a run for the Pilgrim's goal and ended it by sending in a beautiful shot which grazed the goal posts. A second later a run by J. McDonald and Ross was stopped by Pollock, who gave the latter offside, when in a fine position to shoot. Pollitt was hard on Ross as that player was easily on side by five yards. The home forwards were beginning to feel the pace, but were not all in by any means and soon were around Sir Charles' goal, but the defense was sound and Milnes saved at the expense of a corner, which Ross kicked badly. Woodward got off with the goal kick but was stopped by Crabbe and Offers had a chance to shoot which Milnes saved.

The close of the game was of an even nature. McAllister and McClusky time and again stopping the fine combined runs of the English forwards; Crabbe and MacGregor were also conspicuous. The game ended without the league being able to score. The final result being Pilgrims 6; League team 0.

The play of the Englishmen was a finished product and because of this they always had the upper hand. It was not to be expected that the league team could show much combination but everything considered the players made an excellent showing. Had Campbell of the Merrimack team of Lawrence been between the goal posts there would have been a different tale. McDermott was very weak and seemed stage struck. Offers played a splendid game on the outside right, but was well watched by the Englishmen, who knew his ability. McAllister and McClusky played strongly at back and Crabbe and MacGregor put in lots of hard work at half back. Gillespie played poorly at centre forward. J. MacDonald and Ross worked well together and brought off several nice runs.

The passing of the English forwards was well nigh perfect and Woodward's shooting was of the very highest order. Milnes and Storey were sound on the defense and Sir Charles Kirkpatrick kept a splendid goal. Barnsdale centre half, did lots of hard work. Their playing, however, was not value for five goals and the league were in hard luck not to get a point. The teams were:

Pilgrims—Sir Kirkpatrick g; Capt. F. H. Milnes rb; Storey lb; W. H. Nuttall rh; J. D. Barnsdale ch; F. S. Walmsley lh; J. E. Raine ro; T. Fletcher re; J. Woodward cf; C. Coopland le; J. Bryning le.

The League— McDermott g; McAllister rb; McClusky lb; Crabbe rh; Capt. McGregor ch; Robertson lh; Offers ro; McDonald re; Gillespie cf; McDonald le; Ross le.

Referee, Walter Pollitt. Linesmen, F. O. Wright and Thackera, Harvard, '08. Time, two 45-minute halves.

INTERVIEW WITH CAPT. MILNES.

In an interview with Capt. Milnes of the visiting team at the Copley Square hotel after the game, he expressed himself as highly pleased with the game. He said he had expected more trouble from the home forwards, but thought the team didn't do itself justice from lack of playing together. In comparison with the other teams they had met on the trip, he thought the league team as good as any of them. He was hopeful of having the game started in schools of this country, this being the chief object of their trip.

HAVERHILL, Oct 16—Fifty descendants of Hannah Dustin, who became famous in the early days after the settlement of Haverhill by scalping her captors after she had been taken prisoner by Indians, gathered in this city Saturday and formed a permanent family association.

Harry A. Hersey, pastor of the Ashmont Universalist church and remarks were made by Rev. Charles Merriam of Derry, N. H., another descendant of Hannah Dustin. Upon invitation of the Haverhill historical society a number of the delegates visited the society's home on Water street during the noon hour.

At the business meeting it was decided to form a permanent association and these officers were elected: Mrs. M. D. P. Watson, Oakland, Calif., president; Warren Clough, Lowell, W. D. CALLED SPORT IN ITALY.

The olive trees around Lucca are not nearly so old or so gnarled looking as those familiar to visitors on the Riviera, probably because, owing to the proximity of the mountains, the climate in which they grow is more temperate.

There would be a great many beautiful singing birds in the groves and mountain sides around Lucca were it not for the passion which the Tuscan contadini have for la caccia—the chase. The sport they indulge in all day long is shooting at goldfinches and linnets and other little birds, all of which are sold and eaten.

In the markets at Lucca I have seen jays for sale. Upon my expressing a doubt as to their succulency I was assured that they were excellent—when boiled.

There is apparently no rule in Tuscany as to not shooting on the high roads. Indeed, on every mile or two of roadway you will probably meet at least one cacciatore with a gun upon his shoulder.

They will fire at anything, even a cat. I myself saw my friend's cook, Tito by name, shoot a bat on the high road. He said if he could only get enough of them they would make a good pie. Ye gods! bat pie and boiled jay—what a dinner!—Chambers' Journal.

TOLD TO ROYALTY.

Here is a story that Mr. Depew once told King Edward VII:

A day or two after Mr. Depew sailed for Europe a man went into his office and said:

"I want to see Chauncey Depew."

"He has gone to Europe," said the colored porter.

"Well, I want to see Mr. Duval."

"He has gone to Europe."

"Then I want to see Cornelius Vanderbilt."

"He is in Newport."

"O I guess I want to see W. K. Vanderbilt."

"He is also in Newport."

"So? Then may I see Vice Pres Clarke?"

"He is at Albany."

"Vice Pres. Hayden?"

"He is out of town."

"I should like to see Vice Pres Webb."

"He is in Europe."

"Is Supt. Toucey in?"

"He is on the road."

"How about general passenger agent Daniels?"

"He has gone to Cape May."

"Who in thunder is running this road, any how?"

OCTOBER SUBURBAN LIFE.

The cover of the October Suburban Life is a remarkably pleasing effect in two-color work from a photograph by Charles Reid of Scotland, making the magazine a conspicuous object on the newstands. Inside, the contents are as varied and timely as usual, and the subjects treated cover the many interests of the true suburbanite. For those interested in floriculture there is an important article entitled "The Care of House Plants in Winter" by Ida D. Bennett, author of the well known book, "The Flower Garden. Then Robert Cameron, of the Harvard Botanical Gardens, and Luke J. Doogue, of the Boston Public Gardens, have contributed practical articles on fall bulb planting, and there are still other lesser articles on flower-growing scattered throughout the magazine. The leading article is on the milch goat and it brings out many interesting facts regarding this uncommon little animal. Those who are perplexed as to the best way to store their winter fruits and vegetables should not miss Professor Maynard's article, "Storing Fruits and Vegetables for Winter Use," "A Successful Venture in Squab Raising" is an encouraging article for any who are contemplating going into the squab business; the details of the author's experience are given with careful precision. Jean Halifax tells of the conversion of an old lumber-room into a cozy inglenook, and Annie Stevens Perkins describes how some interior features of an old homestead, such as a "parlor bed" and a wall closet, were made into pleasing and convenient articles. Some outdoor papers deal with the flower garden, the vegetable garden, and the planting of trees and shrubs. There is an interesting poultry article by A. M. Hunter, who describes the best kinds of poultry houses for a flock of twenty-five hens. A delightful piece of humorous fiction is contributed to this issue by Fannie Wilder Brown and it contains also the prize winning photographs of the June Photographic Contest. All in all, Suburban Life has never given a bigger ten cents' worth than is contained in the October number.

The business woman had to spend so much money on car fare that she was not averse to sitting and looking ahead of her while the conductor went by. One day, however, when she had ridden up and down, and across town without paying, the conductors had neglected to collect and it was one of her principles not to force money on people—she concluded to be honest and pay.

Besides she was obliged to have a transfer.

The conductor took her fare with some surprise, for she had ridden 3 mile or two, then said to her:

"Madam, you get your transfer on the corner."

"I'll never be honest again," said the business woman as she got off.—New York Press.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE TROLLEY.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

In Massachusetts the trolley is omnipresent, and the "gridironing" of that state merely foreshadows the development which is inevitable in every populated commonwealth in the Union In the middle west interurban traffic has reached a point unknown in this part of the country.

The trolley is the revolutionist of our time. With the telephone and the rural free delivery, it is robbing the country of all its terrors, raising the price of farm land, taking prosperity to the tiller of the soil, rubbing his corners off, and making him and his wife and their children happier and better by bringing them into contact with not merely the stir of business and freer trade, but with those larger intellectual currents of thought of the country and world.

SKILFUL BEGGING.

There are bungling beggars who working a given territory, make the mistake of asking twice in a day from the same man; there are others with a keener eye, who not only avoid such blunders, but who may ply their calling with grace as well as discernment.

A man who was walking quickly along a Harlem street saw ahead, leaning against a fence post, a beggar who accosted him as he passed. Keeping on at the same quick gate, the man reaches in his pocket for a nickel. The man leanig feebly against the fence post was strong enough to overtake the quick-moving man and get the nickel.

In the afternoon, in the next street, the same man met the same beggar, now transparently a beggar, the two meeting this time head on, coming from opposite directions. The man was curious to know whether this beggar would strike him again, or let him pass.

He turned out to be a man of art and self-restraint. As the twel approached the beggar saw him and identified him from afar. As they passed, each holding his way, the beggar had the grace to say again, as he had said in the morning:

"Gentleman, I thank you."

He was a beggar who put some thought into his business, and to whom really there was some pleasure in giving.—New York Sun.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

President Strikes at St. Louis Bridge Monopoly—Spencer Calls Rate Control "Commercial Lynch Law." Democrats Praise Administration—Editor Hearst Runs For Mayor on City Ownership—Freight Car Famine---Gould Beats Ramsey—Vanderlip Warns Bankers—McCurdy's Plea.

POLITICAL

Hearst Runs For Mayor.

Notwithstanding his letter of last week declining to be considered as a third party candidate for mayor of New York, William R. Hearst, the newspaper editor and congressman, finally gave a favorable reply to the committee of the Municipal Ownership league authorized to prepare a third party ticket. Mr. Hearst said that the one thing to be considered was the necessity of giving the people an opportunity of voting for some man of whom it may be said that he would not represent any boss or corporation or private interest. He was unwilling to shirk a task that presented itself as a public duty. He spoke of the gas trust robbery, the insurance revelations and the plundering of subway franchises, and said the machinery of the city government was in the control of a boss whose fortune is based on contracts awarded by corporations in return for special favors and illegal privileges. On the same ticket are John Ford for comptroller and J. G. Phelps Stokes for president of board of aldermen.

W. R. Hearst.

Foraker's Canceled Engagement.

Senator Foraker's acceptance of the invitation to speak in Philadelphia at a meeting engineered by the Penrose-Durham machine was generally discussed in the press as the first step in his plan to capture the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1908 through the support of the railroads and other forces antagonistic toward the administration. Later, however, Mr. Foraker canceled this engagement for fear his appearance in Philadelphia would be interpreted as having direct reference to local troubles. His withdrawal was generally ascribed to the attitude of the administration in making it known that no friend of the president would lend a hand to aid the Philadelphia machine.

Hughes Declines; Ivins Accepts.

After having been nominated at the last moment for mayor of New York by the Republican organization, Charles E. Hughes, the counsel for the insurance investigation committee, told the Republican leaders that the work he had in hand was so inconsistent with the position offered that he could not undertake both without danger to both. This left the Republicans still at sea for the head of their city ticket. Mr. Hughes said that a paramount public duty forbade him from accepting the nomination.

The Republican committee on vacancies finally selected William M. Ivins, who served as city chamberlain under Mayors Grace and Hewitt and who was largely instrumental in introducing the Australian ballot in this country. Mr. Ivins was willing to run. Tammany completed its city ticket without indorsing District Attorney Jerome.

Democrats Praise Roosevelt.

The Rhode Island Democratic convention renominated Governor Garvin on Oct. 12 and congratulated the president on his railroad rate policy, which, they say, was originally introduced in congress by a Democrat.

Would Legalize Lynching.

A number of citizens of Texas have signed a petition to Governor Lenham in favor of permitting mob execution of negroes guilty of assaulting women. The governor's response is that it is impossible for him to countenance such a policy without violating his oath of office.

Rate Control Is Lynch Law.

President Spencer of the Southern railway, speaking to the Newark (N. J.) chamber of commerce, made a formal reply to the agitation for rate legislation. He declared that government control on the lines of the Esch-Townsend bill would be "commercial lynch law," as it would be placing the railroad's earning capacity in the hands of one tribunal which would be prosecutor, jury and judge and at the same time executioner. If it were proposed that the government should acquire the ownership of all the railroads and become responsible for their management and the protection of the capital invested, that would be an entirely different matter. It was proposed "to grant power over the earning capacity without imposing corresponding responsibility for the necessary expenses and risks of conducting the business." It was proposed to change the system under which shipper and carrier had been free to work together and substitute for it one in which "artificial bureaucratic methods will take the place of the natural loss of trade and commerce."

Democrats For City Ownership.

The Democrats of Massachusetts in state convention at Boston have adopted planks favorable to municipal ownership, insurance supervision and in praise of the president's peace policy. They pledge themselves to legislation giving the cities and towns broader powers in conducting and controlling the business "which derives its profits from the necessities of the community, experience having demonstrated that under favorable conditions and proper management the business of public utilities can be conducted by municipal corporations with profit to the people both in gain and service."

EXECUTIVE

Taft Retains Canal Work.

It has been definitely decided that Secretary of War Taft will continue to be responsible for the administration of the great Panama canal project, Secretary of State Root having declined to take over the management. Mr. Root thinks it would not harmonize with the traditions of the state department. Secretary Taft has planned to inspect the isthmus in November.

Warships to Race For President.

On his return voyage from New Orleans President Roosevelt is expected to witness one of the greatest ocean races on record. It will begin at Key West, where the West Virginia, which takes him from New Orleans, will be joined by the cruisers Pennsylvania and Colorado. These are the largest and speediest ships in the navy, and they will enter upon a race of 1,200 miles under a forced draft. The mere cost of the coal to be consumed is estimated at $25,000.

Favor a Sea Level Canal.

It was reported at Panama that a majority of the canal commission, including the European engineers, after their inspection of the canal route, were in favor of a sea level waterway. Before sailing from Colon for New York the committee annulled the contract awarded J. E. Markel of Omaha for feeding the canal workers. This was done because it was found that Engineer Stevens, acting directly for the government through the department of materials and supplies, was handling the commissaries satisfactorily.

Blow at St. Louis Monopoly.

The department of justice has been directed by the president to take immediate action against the St. Louis Terminal association on the ground of its violation of the Sherman interstate commerce law. The association includes the interests dominating the fourteen railroads entering St. Louis. It controls the two bridges across the Mississippi, the Eads and the Merchants, and also the ferry company, with large transfer and wharfage facilities. St. Louis merchants say that it has the commerce of the city at its mercy. Every passenger that enters St. Louis is said to pay tribute to the extent of 25 cents and every car of freight about $5 to the terminal company.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Texas Trust Suit Settled.

The state of Texas accepted $12,500 for claimed penalties aggregating $2,000,000 in its antitrust suits against the Baltimore companies.

Civil Service Law Violated.

The United States civil service commission announced at Washington on Oct. 11 that Judge Francis E. Baker of the federal circuit court in Indiana had confessed to violation of the law by soliciting political assessments from the clerks in the postoffice at Goshen, Ind. Charges against Judge Baker have been referred to the department of justice to determine whether the statutes of limitation shall offer a sufficient defense.

Gaynor and Greene In Jail.

John F. Gaynor and B. D. Greene, the men who so long fought extradition to the United States from Canada, reached Savannah, Ga., and were lodged in jail. Gaynor said to a reporter that he knew now what a mistake they had made in running away from Georgia, as they were justified in every act committed while performing their contract with the government.

Head of Holy Ghosters Free.

"Elijah" Sandford, founder and head of the Holy Ghost and Us society of Shiloh, Me., on his third trial for manslaughter in withholding food from a boy member of the sect who had diphtheria, was set free by virtue of a disagreement of the jury. On the second trial he was convicted, but the supreme court ordered a third trial.

Illinois Educator In Jail.

Newton C. Dougherty, the veteran school superintendent of Peoria, Ill., who was charged with defalcations and forgery under ninety-seven indictments, was locked up, being unable to furnish $70,000 bail required.

A Point For the Packers.

Federal Judge Humphrey in court at Chicago on Oct. 10 decided that the indictments now standing against the meat packers could not be helped but by a bill of particulars, but must be sufficient upon its own merits. This followed the demurrer on nine counts in the indictment and pleas of not guilty under the first count. The demurrers were on the ground of ambiguity, vagueness and uncertainty.

Paper Trust Must Show Books.

Judge Vandeventer in the district court at St. Paul decided that the case of the government against the General Paper company was unappealable and that the books of the company be produced in court.

Theaters Can Bar Anybody.

Justice Brown of the Pennsylvania supreme court in an opinion delivered at Pittsburg holds that a theater proprietor is a private individual engaged in a private business and is under no implied obligations to serve the public. The case was that of Wilbur Horney against Nixon & Zimmerman for having failed to provide him with seats for which he held tickets at a theatrical performance in Philadelphia. The justice says that the entertainment is always limited to those whom the theater proprietor may agree to admit to it.

FOREIGN

Chinese Boycott Abandoned.

That the merchants of China had decided to discontinue the boycott of American products, at least pending the action of the next congress on the exclusion law, was reported in Peking. Should congress fail to modify the law favorably to Chinese interests it is supposed that the boycott will be renewed with increased vigor.

Norway Ratifies Agreement.

The Norwegian storthing, after two days of earnest discussion, accepted by a vote of 101 to 16 the agreement reached by the Karlstadt conference. In a speech Premier Michelsen virtually withdrew Norway's offer of the throne to a member of the Bernadotte family.

Millions of Russians Starving.

Advices from Moscow tell every day a worse tale of the widespread famine with which Russia is faced, affecting 18,000,000 people in twenty-three provinces, who will be absolutely destitute until July next. It has been decided to begin relief work with the children.

Big Strike at Moscow.

The workmen in a majority of the factories in and about Moscow, Russia, joined the strike of the printers and bakers for the purpose of demanding an eight hour day and a large increase in wages. The street railway employees were also in the movement, which threatened to become general.

French Report Bothers Kaiser.

A series of articles in a Paris newspaper, signed by a well known diplomat, have told of a secret understanding by virtue of which Great Britain was pledged to aid France in the event of a war with Germany. This caused a great sensation at London, Paris and Berlin. German newspapers demand that the British government make a formal disavowal.

Against Anglo-Cuban Treaty.

The treaty of commerce and navigation between Cuba and Great Britain, which was signed about five months ago, still awaits ratification by the Cuban senate, and American influence is being brought to bear to prevent ratification until it is amended so as to permit similar agreements between the United States and Cuba.

General Stoessel Cashiered.

A St. Petersburg newspaper reported that General Stoessel, who surrendered Port Arthur, and two of his staff have been dismissed from the army.

RELIGIOUS

Female Angels Not Wanted.

Two magnificent female statues representing the Angel of Annunciation and the Angel of Resurrection which were at the entrance of the chapel of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine at New York were smashed by the hand of their own creator, J. Gutzen Mothe-Borglum, the well known sculptor, because a committee of churchmen had decided that they should be, according to the Scriptures, man angels. The sculptor had previously taken pictures and preserved the heads and hands for his own studio. He still insists that his conception of the angels was proper, being sure "that the feminine of our race must continue to be our chief source of inspiration and will so remain absolutely unaltered by pedantic controversies." It is his belief that there is no sex in angels, and in his work he endeavored to bring out the spiritual and repress the sexual. He had made his angels as nearly sexless as possible. Nevertheless he will go to work in an effort to formulate his conception of a masculine angel, according to the contract for the cathedral work.

J. Gutzen Mothe-Borglum.

Draw Line at Unitarians.

The committee of the National Federation of Churches, which is planning a great national gathering at New York next month, has declined to admit the three delegates of the Unitarian denomination—namely, Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, ex-Secretary of the Navy Long and Samuel A. Eliot, president of the Unitarian association and son of the president of Harvard. The aim of the meeting is to show that Protestantism can work together without organic union. The committee took the ground that delegates should be limited to those who unquestionably accept Christ as the head of the church

PHILLIP ANDOVER 17; YALE FRESHMEN, 5.

The Phillips Andover defense was tested for the first time this season Saturday in the game with Yale Freshmen and while Yale scored, the touchdown was not due so much to weak defense as to offside play and holding for which Andover was frequently penalized.

Andover won 17 to 5, having all the advantage in the first half, scoring 12 points. Hobbs ran 90 yards after the kickoff in the second half and Daly went over the line for a touchdown on the next play, this being the only score Andover made in the second half.

Yale's touchdown came just before the game ended. By line bucking and hurdling Yale had taken the ball from the middle of the field to Andover's 20 yard line. Here Andover held and with third down and six yards to gain Rose, the Yale fullback, was sent back to try for a field goal. The kickoff was blocked and Andover got the ball, but was penalized for holding, being sent back to her own goal line. One rush brought the ball out four yards and then McKay was called upon to punt. The attempt was a failure, the ball going low to one side and rolling back over the goal line. Alcott fell on it, scoring a touchdown for Yale.

Andover kicked off, the ball going over the line. Rose secured it and attempted to run out but was thrown back for a safety. Score Andover 2, Yale Freshman 0. Yale punted from the 25 yard line. On the next play Daly punted but Andover was off side and the ball was taken back. Daly punted again and Yale fumbled, Andover securing the ball on Yale's 20 yard line. Lynn made 15 yards and then McKay took the ball over for a touchdown after three minutes and 20 seconds of play. Bartholomew kicked a goal. Score, Andover 8, Yale Freshmen 0.

Austin kicked off to the 15 yard line. Yale could not gain and Rose punted. Bartholomew ran the kick back to Yale's 20 yard line. Daly tried for a goal from the field from the 30 yard line, but failed. After an exchange of punts it was Yale's ball on her 20 yard line. Yale punted again. Daly made another try for the goal from the field. The kick was blocked and Yale got the ball on her 35 yard line. Yale could not gain and Rose attempted to punt. The ball was blocked and Yale was forced back to her own 10 yard line. Rose punted 35 yards and Daly punted back to Yale's 15 yard line. Rose punted to Merritt on Yale's 32 yard line. Daly tried for a goal from the field again and failed. Daly ran in the kickoff 20 yards and Andover gained steadily to the one yard line. Andover was penalized twice for off side play. Daly kicked a goal from the 12 yard line. Score Andover 12, Yale Freshmen 0.

Andover kicked off and Yale gained two first down and was then held on her 35 yard lie. The half ended at this point.

Yale kicked off in the second half, Hobbs taking the ball and running 20 yards before he was tackled. On the next play Daly made a touchdown. No goal. Score, Andover 17, Yale Freshmen) 0. After the next kickoff Andover was frequently penalized for offside play and holding. McKay finally punted to Andover's 45 yard line. Yale began to advance steadily and worked her way to the 17 yard line where Andover made a stand. Rose tried for a goal from the field. The kick was blocked. Andover being penalized for holding was sent back to her goal line. McKay was called upon for a punt. It was a poor kick, the ball going to the side and rolling back over the goal line. Alcott fell on it scoring a touchdown for Yale. Rose failed to kick a goal. Score, Andover 17; Yale Freshmen 5.

handed us his watch the other day and exultingly remarked: "She's been a good one, aint cost me a cent since I bought her about seven years ago." He admitted he had greased his old wagon a hundred times during that period, but denied his watch one drop of oil. No wonder she stopped. He didn't appreciate the fact that the wheels of the delicate piece of mechanism continued to run whether he toiled or slept, cutting the pivots and gathering dust and rust beyond repair. The Issue Is Clear.

It is well worth while for voters here in Massachusetts to give more than ordinary off-year heed to the political contest of this year. As a rule there is little to attract attention in the campaign that follows the presidential election, but the peculiar conditions of the present time provide a very different situation this year.

To begin with, the election of Governor Douglas last year has been looked upon as carrying all kinds of significance to Massachusetts politics. It represented dissatisfaction with Gov. Bates, or a demand for reciprocity, or a half dozen other things as the point of view determined. It undoubtedly represented a little of many causes of complaint centering around the defeated candidate, and very little of any other issue but that.

This year the old "calamity howl" is again abroad, and there is very plainly going to be a verdict passed upon the real issue of Massachusetts prosperity as affected by the tariff. It is an issue that may be discussed at all times with profit, and one that could never be raised with greater advantage to the republican party than now. The man who would cry out about failing business and decaying industries shows a pitiful ignorance of real conditions in Massachusetts. It does not call for campaign oratory to prove the facts, nor newspaper argument. It simply calls for an individual test by each voter. And no matter where the test may be made, there will be seen busier factories than ever before, fewer idle men, greater product, increasing hustle. If this means anything, it means continued reliance in the protection policy under which New England has been developed.

Editorial Cinders.

We have been inclined to look upon the Choral Union with a deal of approval, for the good it may be able to do for the musical development of the town. This was under the assumption that it was to be in every sense a co-op erative effort with only a normal tax for leadership, but if the scheme is to provide a more or less fat job for some enterprising promoter, the Townsman will suggest right away now that newspaper notices at least will hereafter have full price paid before printing. The six dollars and thirty cents' worth published today is a free gift to the possible Union.

Well, well! What next will be dignified by the name of reception? The success of the great big biscuit maker in getting a crowd to eat his "Nabiscos", and all together cry "Zu-zu", almost emboldens the A. P. to give a function at which nothing less than pi will be served from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., with tea poured by the (printer's) devil. The only trouble is, our goods are already sold so far ahead we darsn't take the risk.

It is always pleasant to hear from Andover boys who are "doing things", and the story of the recent eclipse, as told for one of the big papers, is one of the sort of "things" that all Andover has a pride in. We wish that we might have told it all, not omitting the splendid pictures, but the Townsman is only a local echo of the big metropolitan journal.

The promptness with which the fire department is responding to fire alarms nowadays is bringing forth universal praise. With every member a call man, and horses almost always away from the apparatus, it is really surprising sometimes to see the apparatus on the way to a fire before the alarm has ceased its sounding. It is good work that deserves the appreciation it gets.

"All aboard for the fair!" This may be kept as a standing sign in most of our households for the next month, for the weeks will be scarce in that time when either a church or a society of some sort isn't thus holding forth.

The widespread complaint of the light, both gas and electric, would seem to indicate that the Gas Company is lapsing a little in the character of service which has thus far been so satisfactory. Let us hope that to know of the trouble is to remedy it.

REBEKAH'S MAMMOTH FAIR

The Town Hall a Brilliant Spectacle with Ladened Tables. Decorations Exceptionally Pretty.

The fair which is being held in the Town hall under the auspices of Indian Ridge lodge No. 136, Daughters of Rebekah, opened on Wednesday evening. Although the attendance and sales were not as large as hoped for, the various committees felt gratified with the interest taken by those in attendance. On Thursday night the attendance was much larger and more money was realized from sales. It is expected that tonight a record breaking crowd will be present.

The entertainment which was to have been given by the P. A. Musical club on Wednesday evening was cancelled owing to the refusal of Principal Stearns to allow the boys to come. This was disappointing to many, as it was hoped up to the last minute that the students would furnish the concert. William Matthews, however, pleased the audience for a short time by dancing the Highland fling and Sailor's hornpipe to bag-pipe music, furnished by James Ramsey of Shawsheen road. This was a novelty to most of the people present and all seemed to enjoy it.

The hall is beautifully decorated and each table vies with the other for first honor as being the most attractive. Honors are also about evenly divided in the patronage of each table, and the young ladies with the guessing contests are all trying hard to be the most successful with their book.

As one enters the hall and turns to the left, the first table to meet his eyes is the lemonade table. Here nice cool drinks are served. This table is all in white. Next comes the cake table. All styles of the house-wife's favorite cakes and other dainty morsels can be found here and a visit to this booth means a sure sale. Here the decorations are of yellow and white with two candelabra to add to the effect.

The preserve table, which is next in order, is draped attractively in pink, green and white and is one of the prettiest tables in the hall. All kinds of preserves may be found here and if the goods taste as delicious as they look, one will not think his money spent in this line, thrown away. Close beside the preserve table is the domestic table, where all kinds of bric-a-brac is disposed of at large and small prices. There are all kinds of china ornaments and some useful articles, such as banks, dishes, etc. The decorations are blue and white.

Evergreen, pink and white are the decorations for the souvenir table which is next in line. Everyone should buy a souvenir and there is a large variety to choose from. In the corner of the hall is this mystery table. For a small amount you may get a valuable prize or something which will cause a good deal of amusement for yourself and friends. The table is decorated in green and white with a profusion of chrysanthemums.

In the front of the hall the dolls form the attraction. Here the little girls spend most of their time looking over the many and beautiful children of china. There are big dolls, little dolls, black dolls, white dolls, sailor dolls, Chinese dolls and as many other varieties as one could find anywhere. Orange and white are the colors used in making this table one of the most attractive in the fair.

Cross over to the right of the hall and the first table you see will be the fancy table. This is where the housekeepers and older sisters find things which make the home more attractive. Other things found here are useful as well as ornamental and a visit to this table will repay one. The table is prettily trimmed with pink, green and white.

Next comes the candy table with its delicious sweets. This table is always well patronized and the young ladies are kept busy supplying the demands of their customers. Evergreen is used with pleasing effect in the decorations, the front of the table being prettily draped.

The apron table is also one of the most popular as well as one of the prettiest in the hall. All kinds of aprons can be found here, from the large working apron to the dainty bit of lace-trimmed linen. Andover blue and white are the colors used in decorating and these make the table look very pretty. The vegetable table comes next with its big supply of fresh vegetables and farm produce. The whole effect is one in keeping with the harvest season.

Peanuts are dispensed from a small, prettily trimmed booth.

At the right of the door is situa ed the supper table where appetizing food is dispensed by well known and well skilled chefs. On Wednesday a fine turkey supper was served and on Thursday night the menu consisted of oyster stew, escalloped oysters, cold meats, etc. Tonight a salad and bean supper will be served between the hours of 5.30 and 8. Ice cream and cake are also sold at all hours.

Probably the prettiest table in the hall is the flower table. It is situated in the centre of the hall and is in the form of a booth. All kinds of plants are for sale here as well as cut flowers, the latter showing the plants off to good advantage. The sales at this table during the last two nights have been large and a good sum is expected to be made tonight.

There are a great many guessing contests the winners of which will be announced tonight. The prizes are all valuable and include, ham, $4.00; guitar, $20.00; ton of coal, $7.50; quilt, $40.00 camera, $8.50; gas lamp, $6.00; rocker, $7.50; china set, $12.00; doll, $15.00; two bantam roosters, $3.50; oil heater, $3.50; theatre scarf, $7.50; clock, $5.00.

In the cellar will be found the shooting gallery and the football kick. These have attracted the young men and it is expected that there will be a big contest for the shooting prize.

A trip to Jamaica will be found in the small room at the left of the entrance. This has attracted many and one should not miss taking the trip.

Tonight the fair will close with dancing. Thomes' orchestra will furnish the music and it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

The entertainment last night consisted of a short play entitled "The Brownies Flirtation." The play is given entirely by children and was enjoyed by old and young as well. It was given some time ago in the Town hall and it proved as much a success last night as it did at its first appearance. The fairies were all dressed in white while the boys wore different uniforms. Those who took part were: Fairies; Ruth Temple, Lucretia Lowe, Emma Holt, Elsie Whipple, Esther Claflin, Winnifred Burtt, Ruth Lindsay, Gladys Higgins. Brownie Chinaman, William Higgins; sailor, Walter Lawson; policeman, John Erving; soldier, Eric Hulme; Uncle Sam, Dana Lowd; Indian, Henry Burtt; Scotchman, Howard Cates; dude, James Christie. Miss Ella Barton accompanied for the play.

Charles Pearce played several piano selections during the evening which were well received and William H. Barton told funny stories in his usual pleasing fashion.

Weddings.

ROBERTSON—MCMANUS.

The marriage of two of Andover's popular young people took place at half past eleven in St. Augustine's church on Wednesday morning. The contracting parties were Miss Mary McManus, daughter of Mrs. Mary McManus of 175 North Main street and John Robertson of Avon street. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends of both parties by Rev. Fr. McGowan.

The bride was attended by Miss Katherine Donovan of Wakefield, an intimate friend, and the best man was John Daly, a life-long friend of the groom.

The bride was prettily dressed in a gown of white point-d'esprit and wore a large white picture hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaid was also dressed in point-d'esprit and wore a large blue picture hat. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

A reception was held at the home of the bride from 12 o'clock until three, the bride and groom receiving many relatives who came to extend congratulations and best wishes. A wedding breakfast was served.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left town on a wedding tour which will be spent in Washington and New York. They will be at home after December first on Avon street.

Mr. Robertson holds a responsible position with Armour & Co., the large wholesale packers, in their office in Lowell.

McCARTHY—LESLIE.

Joseph McCarthy and Miss Mabel Leslie, two of the most popular youug people in Abbott Village, were quietly united in marriage at the parochial residence of St. Augustine's church on Wednesday afternoon, at half past five. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. James McGowan. They were attended by Miss Mary McCarthy as bridesmaid and William Sullivan as best man. The former is a sister of the groom.

The bride was attractively gowned in white silk mohair with a veil and carried Bride roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in the same material and carried pink roses. The latter also wore a large picturehat.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McDermitt where a reception was held. From eight until ten many relatives and friends called to extend their congratulations and well wishes. Supper was served by caterer F. P. Higgins to about forty guests. A good time was then enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy received many presents which attested to the esteem and popularity in which each is held. Among the presents was a Morris chair, a gift from the employees of Smith & Dove's mill where Mr. McCarthy is overseer. Other pres nts included china, cut glass, lamps, cloc chairs, linen, pictures and blankets.

Guests were present from Lawrence, Boston, Haver ,ll and Andover. After December firs t Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy will be at home on Cuba street.

Public School Notes.

The schools are dismissed today to enable the teachers to attend the Essex County Teachers association at Peabody. The teachers left Elm square at eight o'clock by special car via Danvers.

The children of the eighth grade have just completed their five weeks' study of the British Isles, and on Wednesday afternoon they, together with the pupils of the ninth grade, were brought together in Punchard Hall, by Superintendent Palmer and shown a hundred and twenty-five stereopticon views of England, Scotland and Ireland illustrating the points they had studied. There were about a hundred and forty present. They next devote four weeks to the study of France.

The girls of the Punchard school are given a thorough and systematic course in physical training under the direction of Misses Carret and Stork. Punchard Hall and the one vacant room in the new building are being used for the purpose.

The teachers are planning their programmes this year so as to give more time to individual instruction than heretofore. This, it is hoped, will mitigate the evils of too exclusive mass teaching.

CLEVELAND BAKING POWDER CO., New York,

Choral Union Formed.

The following circular was sent to a number of local vocalists last week:

"In view of the latent musical talent which is believed to exist in Andover, it has been proposed to organize a Choral Society for the furtherance of musical interest and culture during the coming winter. Considerable interest has already been shown in the project and it is believed that a most pleasant and profitable season may be spent with the help and unanimous support of the musicians of Andover.

The Society will not be a "Singing School" but will be modeled closely after the larger choral organizations of our cities. The work which it is proposed to do will be of a broad type, with sufficient of difficultness to maintain a lively interest yet without the tedious monotony occasioned by the use of too difficult music. Part Songs and Glees will form the basis of the preliminary work to be followed by a study of one or more of the cantatas or oratorios.

In addition to the increase of musical culture and social intercourse, the work will be instructive withal and offer a progressive course of great benefit. The amount of the membership fee will be determined at the opening meeting and will naturally depend largely upon the generous support given the movement. Frequent open rehearsals etc., will be given to the end of acquainting the general public with the progress made and also of furnishing the society opportunity for public appearance.

The services of Mr. Howard Clarke Davis, Director of Music at the Lawrence Street Cong. Church in Lawrence have been secured for this work. Mr. Davis has given special attention to Choral work and Direction and will form a most desirable and valuable acquisition to the society."

The first meeting was held on Monday evening and about forty signified their intentions of joining. Temporary officers were elected as follows:

President, Fred G. Moore; Secretary, George A. Christie; Treasurer, Mrs. F. H. Foster; Executive Committee, the officers and Misses Mabel Carter and Annie G. Donovan.

Mr. Davis explained the motive of having such a society in Andover and hoped that enough would be interested in it during the winter so that a concert might be given in the early spring. Miss Maud Cole will be the accompanist.

The President, Mr. Moore, finds that he cannot serve and has declined the office.

Wedded at Stoneham.

The following is taken from the Stoneham Daily Enterprise of Monday, Oct. 16, and will be of interest to many local people:

BASSO—DEFERRARI.

"Mr. Andrew Basso, a well known fruit merchant of Main street, Andover, and Miss Elia Deferrari were married Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the parochial residence by Rev. Fr. Milerick, pastor of St. Patrick's church.

The best man was Mr. Louis Deferrari and the bridesmaid, Miss Teresa Deferrari.

The bride has for about ten years been the popular clerk at A. Deferrari's store, Central Square, where she has made hosts of friends by her sunny, kind and cheerful disposition, and close attention to the wants of every customer, rich, poor, young and old. Mr. Basso has certainly secured a prize in Elia, judging from the many presents sent her by the people of Stoneham, who thoroughly appreciate her worth. The business people of the town contributed a beautiful China Set, as a token of their love and esteem.

The wedding banquet was served at Mr. Jos. Deferrari's home, on Spring street and a lunch was served at Mr. A. Deferrari's, Spring street. Both are brothers of the bride by adoption.

The bride wore an elegant gown of gray silk liberty crepe, trimmed with heavy silk appliqué, and hat to match, trimmed with ostrich plumes.

Music and singing was furnished by well known Italian talent from Borton, friends of the groom. The quartet singing and solos were simply fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Basso will reside in And over."

THE RECENT ECLIPSE

As it was Seen by an Andover Boy. From the Story and Pictures of the Philadelphia Ledger.

A very interesting section of the Philadelphia Public Ledger of Oct. 8, with almost a page of pictures of great merit, tells of the very successful work of one of the Lick Eclipse expeditions, as it was observed by an Andover boy, Frederic Palmer, jr. The pictures were from photos made by Mr. Palmer and the story of the eclipse is most entertaining. The trip must of itself have been a very delightful one sailing from New York in July and arriving at their camping place in a little village north of Madrid in Spain about three weeks later. The eclipse itself can be told of in no way so vividly as by quoting Mr. Palmer's own words.

"The day before the eclipse was occupied with final adjustments and more hours of practice, this time under trying conditions, for the sky was covered with heavy clouds, and the wind was high, so that the timekeeper lost his voice after counting through the three minutes and forty-five seconds only once. The chances of bright weather on the morrow seemed very small, and we felt discouraged.

The fact that the newspaper reported stormy conditions all over Spain made us all the happier to find waiting for us a perfect day, without either cloud or wind! It was un-hoped for luck, and acted like a tonic to us all. Our final rehearsal went off without a tremor.

While the ladies were urging us to snatch a mouthful of the lunch they had brought, some one noticed the small notch in the western edge of the sun's disc, which meant that the partial phase of the eclipse had begun. Nevertheless, we had an hour yet, for it was only 12 o'clock, and we did not expect totality to begin till shortly after 1.

Eclipse Begins with Cloud

By this time the neighboring hill was crowded with spectators from the town, whom the soldiers with difficulty kept back from the camp as far as possible, so that if they should cry out when totality commenced the noise would not disturb our signals. There were one or two things still to be done in the way of final adjustment; but only a few moments remained. We groaned aloud as a small thin cloud, the only one in the sky, stationed itself directly between us and the sun. Nevertheless it was fortunately thin enough to permit good seeing.

Darker and darker it grew, a yellowish green light seeming to settle over the earth. Familiar objects assumed a strange appearance. Birds flew about wildly. Now only a thin crescent of the sun was visible. With trembling hands each instrument was quickly set pointing directly toward the sun, and the regulating clock started. All was ready.

"One minute!" The last adjustment had been finished not a moment too soon.

"Twenty seconds!"

"Go!!"

"One! Two! Three! Four!"—

Totality 17 Seconds Ahead

Totality had come nearly seventeen seconds ahead of schedule time! Our warning signal, twelve seconds beforehand, was never given. Instead of causing confusion, this unexpected circumstance was taken with entire equanimity by our assistants, who fell into the count at once, and worked straight through without uttering a word.

The sky turned ashen gray. There was a chill in the air. Venus and Mercury shone out brilliantly, while from behind the black disc of the moon shot the pale green coronal streamers millions of miles into space. Upon two opposite sides the moon's rim seemed to be set with flaming rubies, where the great red jets of hydrogen blazed forth from the sun thousands of miles beyond the surface of the moon. It was at once evident that the corona was quite evenly developed all the way around, making an almost circular halo about the moon, brilliant at its very edge, and rapidly diminishing as you followed the curving streamers out to a distance a little greater than the diameter of the sun. This circular appearance of the corona had been predicted from data taken at previous observations, which showed a tendency to this form every eleven years. It was about as dark as it would be ordinarily at 8 o'clock on a July evening, but not enough to interfere with handling the instruments properly.

Great Outburst From Sun

Suddenly, at the moon's western edge there was a blaze of light, which almost immediately became a crescent of the sun. To one who was standing with his back to the eclipse the landscape appeared suddenly illuminated, as if by the explosion of some great rocket in the upper air. The effect was instantaneous. Nor were we expecting it, for the count had reached only three minutes and thirty-eight seconds. We were thus cheated out of seven of our precious seconds."

Notice.

I wish to find a place where a boy of 12 may have a kind home, go to school, and work for his board. Apply to Andover.

A Drive to Haggetts Pond.

"Nature never grows old." Spring, with the singing of birds and apple blossoms; summer, with its sunshine and flowers; autumn, mellow and rich in golden grain and colored foliage; winter, with its snowy mantle, are all beautiful to the lover of nature. Many good people have eyes to see and see not. It is said of Walter Scott's wife that hearing the remark made by that prince of novelists when they were out driving that these lambs running in the pasture were beautiful, without looking in their direction replied, "Yes, they are good eating with mint sauce." You have all heard of the girl from a big city when she came to see her friends who lived on a farm. On being shown the cows asked, "Which one gives the buttermilk?"

Andover is rich is beautiful places. The roads all around it are surrounded by "things of beauty, which are a joy forever." On the last day of September I got a drive to Haggetts Pond. We went by Red Spring Road, and came back the high road. The afternoon was fine, and I enjoyed the outing very much. The thought in my mind when we were passing the "spring" was that one quart of this Red Spring water was worth all the patent quack medicines in the world. The old Abbot house and the stately old trees sheltering it with their big arms, and the brook across the road which "goes on forever", put one in touch with the past and the present. Where are the men that put up that house, and where are the children who "paidled" in that brook when those trees were planted? On moving slowly up the hill past "Blood's" we got a sailor's salute from "George" and his dogs, and noticed that he had a grand crop of onions in his garden. We were pleased to see that Jameson's "new house", a very neat farmhouse, was nearly ready to be occupied.

The drive from Mr. Jameson's place to the West Parish highway always put me in mind of Scotland. All it wants is a high background of heather hills. The grass even on this last day of September all the way to the pond was fresh and green, giving a good bite to the healthy looking cows. The white leghorn fowls, enjoying the grasshoppers on the green park at one of the Lovejoy farms, always pleases me to look at. At Watson's we were delighted seeing his stock of very fine Jersey and Dutch cows. When passing the now tidy place occupied by Mr. Hilton we got some excellent apples. There is a little farm on opposite side of the road from Hilton's, a few hundred yards nearer Haggetts. I don't know who lives there now. I there saw a Scotch cow, or it may be a good imitation. She was alone, a black bulky animal with short fine legs and big clear black eyes, a fair sample apparently of the "Aberdeen Angus" cattle. They have no horns on their heads, and are celebrated for the weight of butchermeat they give for their live weight.

Just that same day I had been reading of the sale of twenty cattle of that breed. They were two and three-year-old heifers, and brought to their owner almost $6000, the average being nearly $300.

I miss Mr. Boynton and his white Brahma fowls, and his kindly sister. Mr. Boynton was one of nature's gentlemen, an old Phillips Academy boy, a good musician, and knew the history of his country, and believed in her future.

The afternoon was wearing into gloaming and we had a very short time to spend sailing on the lake. The visitors, cottagers, and campers were all away, but the pond, glittering in the setting sun as she bade us good-night over Burtt's cove, lives in my memory; and the kindly way the strong arms of Mr. Bailey lifted me like a child from the boat is not forgotten. I pulled some beautiful wild asters, and in a shady nook I found rich bits of golden rod and a bit of common bracken fern, and so had as fine a bouquet as one could wish. We came home in good time. We were just in time to see Mr. Averill's handsome graded cows, and the rich grass on his farm accounts for the good milk I get every morning. I have gone to Haggetts often during these twenty years. I grow old. Nature is always growing.

Crowds Attend Reception.

The throngs of ladies who attended the reception given by the National Biscuit Company Wednesday afternoon at their store in Elm Block, enjoyed an entertainment that was not only unique in the history of this town, but was also unusual in the benefits conferred upon the guests. From a social point of view, the affair was a pronounced success, while the benefits of better acquaintance with the products of the National Biscuit Company will be shared alike by the hosts and those who enjoyed their hospitality.

The thorough preparations that had been made for the reception were most apparent in the interior of the hall. Purple and white, the National Biscuit Company's colors, were everywhere in evidence, suggesting the purple and white package of Uneeda Biscuit, one of the best and best known of the Company's products.

In every available nook and corner were ornamental displays consisting of artistic arrangements of the packages containing the various delicacies that have made the fame of National Biscuit Company. The golden yellow of the Lemon Snap formed a harmonious contrast with the bright red packages of Graham Crackers and the royel purple and white of the Uneeda Biscuit. But all these and many other good things were put to a better purpose than decoration. The delighted guests were served with refreshments, which included besides the products mentioned, other triumphs of the baker's art such as Butter Thin Biscuit, Oysterettes, Zu Zu Ginger Snaps and others, all of which have their purity and goodness guaranteed by the trademark of the National Biscuit Company on each end of the package.

Two most delicious confections were served as dessert—Nabisco Sugar Wafers and Festino Almonds. These deserve special mention, forming as they do, a class by themselves.

The committee having charge of this reception express themselves as delighted by the enthusiastic interest manifested by the ladies of this town. It was a complete success as a social event, and as an illustration of the merit of the products of the National Biscuit Company.

William Stirling of the local association football team has been engaged to play a game as right half back tomorrow afternoon with the Ludlow club against the Springfield eleven. He left for Ludlow today.

Bankers Acclaim Prosperity.

About 3,000 members of the American Bankers' association attended its thirty-first annual meeting at Washington. Vice President Vanderlip of the National City bank of New York made a stirring address by ending his description of the existing prosperity with the prediction of a financial panic in case a wave of stock speculation should arrive. He warned the bankers to use their influence against overconfidence. As a remedy for the inflexible monetary system he prescribed a taxed national bank currency. The recent great increase in the production of gold was likely to result in future disturbance of values. In twenty years the volume of money in the world might be doubled, causing a corresponding increase in the price of many commodities. But the price of an obligation repayable in money would not advance. Thus persons with a fixed income from capital and wage earners generally would be at a disadvantage, for their incomes would not increase as fast as their purchasing power.

Vice President Vanderlip.

By an overwhelming vote the association indorsed the Frye ship subsidy bill.

Gould Defeats Ramsey.

The effort of Joseph Ramsey, Jr., the deposed president of the Wabash railroad system, to obtain control of the company ended disastrously when at Toledo George J. Gould elected all of the six directors to be chosen by the bondholders. The vote cast for Gould's men was 228,510 against 31,842 for those of Ramsey. The holdings of the Gould family amounted to 105,400 shares of the par value of $10,540,000.

McCurdy as a Missionary.

Before the New York insurance committee adjourned on account of the death of Speaker Nixon of the assembly President McCurdy of the Mutual Life had made some remarkable statements as a witness. He admitted that his salary had been raised in 1901 from $100,000 to $150,000 by the subcommittee on salaries without action by the trustees. He regarded this as a great compliment. When asked by Mr. Hughes if he thought he had a right to take that money from the policy holders as a matter of compliment, Mr. McCurdy replied that he did not put it that way, having said that he felt highly complimented. Modesty forbade his giving an opinion as to his value to the company. When his lawyer, James M. Beck, was asked if the services of any man as head of an insurance company were worth $150,000 a year he replied that there were thirty law firms in New York making more than $150,000 with no such responsibility.

President McCurdy then volunteered the opinion that the Mutual Life was organized upon the theory that it was a great beneficent institution. Profits were not thought of nor dreamed of. It was not the object to declare a dividend to a single man, but was to insure as many men as possible and "to pay them at the time of their death and not during their lifetime one penny."

In the testimony of Dr. W. R. Gillette and R. H. Grannis, vice presidents, it came to light that the Mutual had paid $90,000 to the Republican committee in the last three presidential campaigns. Chairman Oliphant of the expense committee said that $100,000 a year had been paid for "confidential legal expenses," which means lobbying.

Missouri Strikes New York Life.

Superintendent of Insurance Vandiver of Missouri has notified President McCall of the New York Life that his $148,742 campaign contributions be refunded to the company under the penalty of having the company's license in Missouri revoked for failure to comply with the demand. Vandiver also insists upon the election of new officers.

Lawson's Insurance Committee.

The governors of several western states have been requested by Thomas W. Lawson to join in forming a policy holders' committee for the purpose of taking possession of the Equitable, Mutual and New York life insurance concerns to obtain restitution and punishment of the wrongdoers.

The West After Tourists.

The Salt Lake Commercial club has asked the governors of nine western states to join in an advertising campaign to show the American tourist that he can spend a more profitable vacation in the west than in Europe.

Erie Reaching For Pacific.

The formal transfer of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, now known as the Great Central system, to the Erie railway was made at Cincinnati. At the same time a report was current in Milwaukee that the Wisconsin Central was about to become the link between the Erie and the Great Northern in a new transcontinental route.

Southern Governors to Confer.

A formal call for a conference of southern representative men to be held at Chattanooga in November has been signed by twelve governors and the officials of the chambers of commerce of several cities. After reciting the prosperity and business growth of the south and its prospects the call points out the urgent necessity of adopting a uniform system of quarantine that will allay the apprehensions of the people and save the land from the demoralizing and brutalizing tendencies of a panic inspired quarantine against yellow fever. It says that heretofore the most strenuous, unreasonable and unnecessarily burdensome measures have been used, which have destroyed business and commerce and reflected on the very instincts of the people.

Germany's Meat Famine.

Horseflesh has risen in price in German cities, like all other kinds of meat, to such an extent that the authorities are importing fish by the carload to sell to the people at cost. A movement was started to raise the bars against Russian cattle and American canned meats.

More Air Brake Freight Cars.

The interstate commerce commission has decided to require all railroads engaged in interstate commerce to increase their equipment of air brake freight cars. Recent accidents have illustrated the danger of train buckling when only a part of the cars are equipped with the air brakes. It is thought that if in each train at least 50 per cent of the cars are controlled by the engineer such accidents may be avoided.

INDUSTRIAL

Suffering From Car Famine.

The industries of the entire country are suffering from an unprecedented shortage of railroad freight cars. Within a month, since the movement of western grain began, traffic in all lines has rapidly exceeded the capacity of the big railroads. Chicago and Buffalo grain elevators are overflowing, at the same time that ships are leaving Philadelphia and New York with only part cargoes because the railroads cannot get the grain through fast enough. Billions of bushels of grain are tied up in western cities. The builders cannot turn out new cars fast enough to meet the demand.

Largest Ship In the World Sails.

The new steamship Amerika of the Hamburg-American line sailed from Hamburg for New York with about 4,000 passengers and crew. This is the largest ship in the world, being 687 feet long, 74 feet 6 inches wide and 53 feet deep. She has a restaurant a la carte, open night and day, so that passengers need pay for transportation only. There are electric elevators from one deck to another, telephones from staterooms to the restaurant and other parts of the ship, a florist shop, a gymnasium, trained nurses, a nursery for children and different kinds of baths.

A New Atlantic Cable.

The Commercial Cable company's fifth cable across the Atlantic ocean from Canso, Nova Scotia, to Waterville, Ireland, has been completed. Its greatest depth is 2,500 fathoms.

EDUCATIONAL

Lehigh's New President.

Henry S. Drinker, formerly general solicitor of the Lehigh Valley railroad, was installed as president of Lehigh university at Bethlehem, Pa.

Women Studying Vivisection.

Eight women students have entered the large class in vivisection at the University of Chicago.

International University Mission.

Professor Mehelm Poszkowski of the University of Berlin has begun his duties as special commissioner to Emperor William in establishing a new system of international university co-operation. He has already visited some of the eastern universities and will include fourteen in connection with the mission.

Boston Has a School City.

The Hancock School For Girls at Boston has been successfully organized as a school city under the guidance of Miss Ellen Sawtelle as principal. It is the first school in Boston to adopt this method of training the young for self government.

Railroad Education Course.

Co-operation between the University of Chicago and a number of railroad officers has resulted in the establishment of a four year course in railroad education at that university.

SOCIOLOGICAL

To Syndicate City Saloons.

Twenty-five prominent business men of Los Angeles, Cal., have begun the organization of a company which will offer to pay the city $180,000 a year for the 200 saloon licenses now in operation and to reduce the total number of saloons to twenty-five. The company will acquire the fixtures and good will of the present proprietors at an appraised valuation. The stockholders of the company will be entitled to 6 per cent dividends on the total amount of their investment, and the remainder of the profits will revert to the city treasury.

What a German City Owns.

In a report from United States Consul Lefeldt of Freiburg, Germany, a city of 70,000 inhabitants, the most extreme example of municipal ownership in Europe is described. Among the things which the city conducts are the street railroads, lighting, water, theater, slaughter house, pawn shops, savings banks, schools, cemeteries and a daily newspaper. A profit of over $3,000 in a year was made on the disposal of garbage. The receipts for the poor amounted to $58,000. Buildings owned by the city are rented by the military administration. The receipts of the theater amounted to nearly $90,000, of which the treasury paid $32,000, this being regarded as a necessary element for educating the people. There is a people's kitchen, the receipts of which in 1904 amounted to $27,816. The water department paid $71,000 into the treasury besides wages of employees. The pension fund for officials, teachers, widows and orphans just balanced at $11,552. The sewage of the city is conducted to a municipal farm a few miles from the city, the proceeds of which netted several thousand dollars. The receipts of the slaughter house in 1904 were $44,789, and $4,211 was paid into the city treasury.

Would Kill Incurables.

Miss Helen Hall of Cincinnati endeavored to have the American Humane association indorse the proposition that persons hopelessly injured or suffering in death throes should be put out of misery by anaesthetics. The proposition was ruled out by the chairman, Dr. Stillman of Albany, and the association seemed to approve his course.

Fortunes Limited to $10,000,000.

Commander Robert B. Rodney, a retired naval officer, has issued a circular calling upon the government to limit the fortunes of individuals to $10,000,000, all holdings over that amount to be condemned and turned into the treasury. He declares that "anarchy's prophylactic is to supply to the law in some form the centrifugal principle without which the law, being purely centripetal, simply draws all wealth into as few hands as possible."

SCIENTIFIC

The Von Behring Lung Cure.

The feature of the last session of the International Tuberculosis congress at Paris was the statement made by Professor von Behring, the distinguished bacteriologist of the Pasteur institute, concerning the nature of his new tuberculosis cure. He said that his curative principle differed completely from the antitoxic principle, resting upon the impregnation of the living cells of the organism with a substance originating from tuberculosis virus. The introduction of this substance into the cellular organism had already given marked results in the treatment of animals, and he hoped to overcome results in treating human beings. The experiments with men have not yet been made.

Professor von Behring

The exact method which he employs in separating and applying the curative substance he refused to make public. There was talk of a subscription to remunerate him for making his discovery public property. He refused to consider any such offer, preferring to proceed with his experiments until the scientific societies shall have proclaimed the value of his work. Professor von Behring is the man credited with having discovered the serum treatment for dyphtheria, and he won the Nobel prize in 1901 for his success in preventing tuberculosis in animals by inoculation.

The tuberculosis congress decided to meet in Washington in 1908.

Left Body to Be Dissected.

George W. Catt, the well known engineer who recently died at his home in New York, willed that his body should be turned over to the University and Bellevue hospitals for dissection. His death occurred after an operation for gall stones. His widow, Mrs. Chapman Catt, who is president of the National Woman's Suffrage association, carried out her husband's wishes, and the body on Sept. 10 was turned over to the medical men. The preliminary autopsy showed that Mr. Catt had lived in spite of the fact that the pancreas, which supplies the intestines with digestive juices, had been useless.

MISCELLANEOUS

Roosevelt For Clean Football.

A conference between President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Root and several of the leading college football coaches was held at the White House to see what could be done toward improving the quality of football, and especially by reducing the element of brutality in that game. Subsequently the athletic advisers announced that it was agreed to consider that an honorable obligation exists to carry out in letter and spirit the rules of the game of football relating to roughness, holding and foul play.

Selected For Hall of Fame.

Electors for the Hall of Fame of the New York university have agreed on three names—James Russell Lowell and John G. Whittier as authors, and General W. T. Sherman as a soldier.

Lewis and Clark Fair Closed.

The Lewis and Clarke exposition has closed with a record of over 2,250,000 persons in attendance.

Deaths.

Sir Henry Irving, the distinguished English tragedian, died at Bradford, England, Oct. 13, only an hour or so after he had appeared on the stage.

S. Fred Nixon, speaker of the New York assembly, died at Westfield, N. Y.

Prince Troubetskoy, the leading Liberal of Russia, who was recently elected rector of the University of Moscow, died at St. Petersburg.

Dr. John A. Ouchterlony, one of the best known physicians in the country, died at Louisville, Ky.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women, Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrew's Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cureas follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for ovarian and female troubles. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life. Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had saved other women from serious operations I decided to try it, and in less than four months I was entirely cured; and words fail to express my thankfulness."

Miss Margret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

METHUEN.

TWO FIRES SATURDAY.

The Methuen fire department was called out twice Saturday by bell alarms. The first time about 1 o'clock from box 15 located at the corner of Elm and Orchard streets, near Glen Forest on the Lowell road. The blaze was in Glen Forest where a brush fire had communicated with the electric switch house. The building was about 16x20 feet and was practcally destroyed when the department arrived. It was a long, hard run for the three pieces of apparatus which responded to the alarm. The money loss will not amount to more than $25 or $50.

The second alarm was rung in about 11 o'clock at night from box 28, at the corner of Pelham and Mystic streets. The fire was in a small building owned by James A. Richardson in Richardson court and occupied as a store house and club room. A stream from a nearby hydrant was sufficient to extinguish the flames and the damage was slight.

EXPERIENCE PARTY HELD.

Saturday afternoon the members of Samuel Adams chapter, D. A. R. of this town, Molly Varnum chapter of Lowell, and Josiah Bartlett chapter of Amesbury united in an "experience" party, which was held in the local town hall. The affair was planned for the purpose of raising funds to go toward the purchase of the Paul Revere Home. There was a large attendance of the members of local chapter and of the two visiting chapters. The hall was attractively decorated under the direction of Mrs. R. M. Cross assisted by an able committee.

The Amesbury party arrived at an early hour and were served at noon with hot coffee, by the refreshment committee in charge of Mrs. Henry A. Merrill, after which they were driven about town in one of Graham's barges.

Much merriment was caused by the unusual experiences and the musical contributions to the program were of high order.

The chapter winning the first prize for raising the largest sum of money in proportion to its membership was Josiah Bartlett chapter, D. D., of Amesbury. The prize was a silver cup engraved as follows: "Experience party, Methuen, Mass., October 14, 1905."

Individual prizes for the best experiences told in relation to raising their money were awarded as follows: Mrs. Henry M. Thompson of Lowell, Mrs. Allen of Amesbury and Mrs. Anabal Andrews of Hudson, N. H.

Miss Camelia A. Howe read a paper giving the experience of an apple's travels, which was very amusing.

Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Charles M. Williams of Lowell, and Mrs. John J. Donovan of Lawrence.

The judges of the contest were Miss Webster of Molly Varnum chapter, Lowell: Mrs. R. B. Hawley of Josiah Bartlett chapter, Amesbury, and Mrs. Jacob Emerson of Samuel Adams chapter, D. A. R., Methuen.

Refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. Henry A. Merrill, chairman; Mrs. Clara A. Carleton, Mrs. Ardelle C. Austin, Mrs. Lizzie E. Snell.

The reception committee who contributed largely to the success of the affair and who poured coffee was composed of the following: Mrs. Edwin J. Castle, chairman; Mrs. George W. Silloway, Mrs. John Donovan, Mrs. William Sawyer, Mrs. Helen Spooner, Miss Ella Bodwell, Miss Edith Messer, Mrs. W. L. S. Gilcreast.

Miss C. A. Howe was chairman of the general committee.

HARVEST CONCERT.

An excellent harvest concert was given at the Second P. M. church on Arlington Heights last night by the children of the Sunday school and was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. William H. Craven, the assistant superintendent of the school presided. The committee that arranged the program for the affair consisted of Mrs. John T. Dugdale, Mrs. Fred Donkin and Mrs. S. B. Duff. A WONDERFUL OLD MAN.

(From the Chicago News.)

An extraordinary man is Galen Clark, the discoverer of the Mariposa grove of big trees in California. He was threatened with consumption in San Francisco in 1853 and sent to the Sierra by a physician, where he went bareheaded and drank only water for more than 30 years.

During the past three weeks, at the age of 91, he has visited the Gen. Grant grove and Sequoia grove in Fresno and Tulare cos., riding 294 miles in stage coaches, 40 in the saddle and one day walkink 12 miles, returning to the Yosemite valley last week none the worse from his travels.

GAY TOGS EXCITE INDIANS.

From the N. Y. Herald.

Pine Ridge Agency, S. D., Sept. 17—Because Dead Horse, lately returned from a trip to Europe, made his appearance in Sioux city in a pair of checked trousers bought in Paris, he is threatened with expulsion by the tribe.

Dead Horse and his family were with Buffalo Bill's show in Europe, and during his tour of the Continent took pride in the display of his feathers and beads and painted legs. But on returning to this country and just before he took a train from Omaha for So. Dakota he donned his Paris clothes. In place of his beaded chappe was a pair of trousers with checks. His moccasins were discarded and in place appeared figured brown hose yellow Oxfords. His blue army shirt resigned in favor of a lavender and pink silk affair. But he retained his blanket and the green and scarlet ribbons that bound up his hair. He wanted to spring his new clothes on his fellow tribesmen as a surprise.

The first the tribe knew of the return of Dead Horse to his tepee was when he burst in upon a circle of Indians in the fervor of a native dance. Now, it is the height of rudeness, in Indian etiquette, to attend these dances with more clothes than the law of the white man absolutely requires. The attire consists largely of eagle tails and ochre and green paint, in alternating splashes.

The indignation of his tribesmen can be understood then when he leaped into the circle, checked trousers, pink shirt, yellow shoes and all, and began dancing. It promptly broke up the festivities. The offended Indians gazed in disgust at the returned traveler, and then retired into a council to which all the chiefs of the tribe were called.

WIDOW McKINNON IS AMONG MISSING.

A widow past middle age, Mrs. McKinnon by name, has been missing from her home, 9 Highland street, since last Saturday night and relatives fear that she has either met with some accident or done away with herself during a fit of temporary insanity. She had been acting queerly of late and told people that knew her that she would not be around long and that the dress she wore was to be her burial suit.

It was reported to the police Wednesday that the woman was missing and a detail of officers was immediately sent out to search along the banks of the Spicket river as it is probable that she has committed suicide by drowning.

Three weeks ago she worked in the Arlington mills. Last Saturday night she retired to her room and since that time nothing has been seen or heard of her. Highland street runs between Arlington and Park streets and the Spicket river is not far away. The police have as yet been unable to find any trace of the woman.

In the family are two sons and one married daughter. They fear the worst.

BRAKEMAN H. SHAW FATALLY INJURED.

James H. Shaw, for the past 20 years a brakeman on the Boston and Maine was run over by a freight Monday afternoon at 5.05 o'clock. Both of his legs were almost crushed, and as a result of the shock and loss of blood he died at the General hospital about 8 o'clock in the evening.

Just how the accident, which caused his death occurred, no one seems to know. Shaw with several others was assisting to shift cars into and in the vicinity of the freight house.

Shaw was in the shed and after the freight train had pulled out the fellow workers of Shaw were horrified to see him on the ground, moaning and semi-conscious. They ran to him and found that both of his legs were crushed, the cars having passed over them. The ambulance was sent for and the victim was in the hospital at 5.25 o'clock.

The condition of Shaw would not permit of amputation and he was made as comfortable as possible by the physicians and nurses, while stimulants were given in an effort to fortify his constitution for an operation. He lingered until 8 o'clock at times conscious and again delirious, and finally breathed his last.

It was found that his right leg was crushed between the ankle and the knee and two toes were also badly crushed. The left leg was also crushed between the knee and hip and the toes on the member were also badly bruised. If the victim had lived amputation would have been necessary. Doctors McAllister, Carleton and Sargent attended the victim and did all possible to relieve his sufferings.

The deceased resided at 24 Broadway avenue and his wife was notified early in the evening. She is a daughter of James Chambers and is very well known in this city. She was almost prostrated upon hearing the news. Shaw is about 40 years old and is one of the best known railway trainmen in this vicinity. Most of his work in railroading has been with the shifting crew in this city and he was liked by all who were connected with him. He was a member of Monadnock lodge and Kearsarge encampment and of Columbia colony, U. O. P. F. The deceased was also a member of Merrimack Valley lodge of the Railway Trainmen's Relief association. The remains will be taken in charge this morning by Parsons and Bennett, after Medical Examiner Dow who was out of town last evening, views the body.

Seventeen cases were continued, 52 filed, 53 probated, seven nol prossed, one quashed, 10 verdicts of not guilty and five disagreements and one prisoned pronounced insane.

Yesterday noon the jurors tendered a dinner to the judge, sheriff, district attorney and assistant, and the clerk of the sitting at the Essex house.

GRANITE CONTRACT GOES TO A LAWRENCE FIRM.

The Lawrence Granite company has secured the contract to supply granite to the new Wood mill. The contract is probably the largest ever awarded in this city.

Those in charge of the work at the new mill have shown an interest in Lawrence firms and help and except in cases where they are absolutely obliged to go outside of the city, all the work is being done by local men.

The contract calls for almost five miles of stone. The number of men employed has been enlarged to 30 and four quarries are getting out the granite that will be needed in the new mill.

The firm will furnish all the granite sills and if these were stretched out they would measure a trifle over three miles. The granite underpinning will mean another mile and the pier caps steps, threshold and odd pieces of granite here and there will bring the contract up to about five miles of granite if stretched out.

Six cars of granite are cut up every day so that showing the enormousness of the contract. Already some of the stone has been removed to the new mill and the work will be rushed along until it is completed.

The case of Horace P. Eaton vs. the inhabitants of Andover and the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, was assigned for trial after the McCrillis libel cases. Eaton sues for $10,000 for personal injuries caused by his being thrown from his wagon as a result of being struck by a low hanging wire on Marland street, Andover. Donovan and Arundel appear for the plaintiff and Knox and Coulson and Powers and Hall for the defendants.

EARLY HOURS IN VIENNA.

Lady Paget in the Nineteenth Century.

Until quite lately the usual dinner hours were from 4 to 6 p. m., this latter being quite the latest and most fashionable time, for everybody had boxes at the Burg and the Opera and these being at 7 p. m. and have to be over by 1 p. m., as that is the charmed moment at which all who do not live in a house of their own have to be back, unless they wish to be mulcted of the sum of 10 kreutzers.

Every porter closes his door punctually at 10 p. m., and the 10 kreutzers are his perquisite.

When, some years ago, the question was mooted of putting back the closing time to 11 p. m. there was a revolt among the porters and the authorities had to give in.

Practice vs. Preaching!

In voting a man should use discrimination and choose between the Practice of the members of one party and the Preaching of the other for campaign effect.

Republican Candidates Who Practice What They Preach.

HON. CURTIS GUILD, JR.

TO SAVE THE CHILDREN.

At the recent convention of the State Federation of Labor a resolution was passed endorsing

HON. CURTIS GUILD, Jr.,
Republican Candidate for Governor,

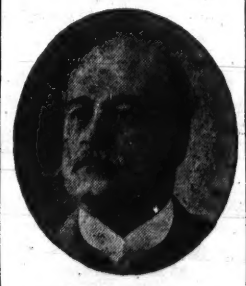

for his efforts in behalf of the abolition of child labor in this country. He was recognized as the true friend of labor.

A MODEL MILL TOWN.

Students of labor conditions have placed their seal of approval upon Hopedale, the mill town which

HON. EBEN S. DRAPER,
Republican Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, and his family have established, and 3000 or more people find work in plenty there, at good wages and under the most beautiful and beneficent surroundings.

HON. EBEN S. DRAPER.

What have the Democratic candidates done to equal this? Which is the true friend of labor, the man who does things for labor at every opportunity, or the man who is continually telling what he would do if he ever had the opportunity and then dodges the opportunity?

THE TRUE FRIENDS OF LABOR ARE

$1,500 IN PRIZES

Offered for Subscriptions by the Publishers of "The Musician."

The remarkable success of "The Musician" in the last two years is due to the fact that in its particular field it has become almost indispensable. The reading pages contain information of interest to all teachers, students and lovers of music, besides which, each issue gives twenty-four pages of new vocal and instrumental music. The music alone, if purchased separately, would cost two or three dollars. The price of "The Musician" is a nominal one, fifteen cents a copy, and by the year one dollar and a half.

The appearance next month in London of the first English edition of "The Musician" marks an epoch in the history of American journalism. "The Musician," is the first American musical journal, and probably the only periodical devoted to art, that has ever been sought by a European market.

The prizes offered will be in addition to the regular commissions given for subscriptions. There will be twenty-one in all, the first prize being five hundred dollars. This is an extremely liberal offer. The commissions alone will enable all who devote a part of their leisure time to the magazine to add considerably to their incomes. Every owner of a piano is a prospective subscriber to this excellent publication. Particulars may be obtained by addressing the Oliver Ditson Co., 151 Tremont Street, Boston.

BITTEN BY DOG.

Constable George L. Harris, agent of the board of health, while in pursuance of his duties Tuesday forenoon, was bitten in the right hand by a dog. The dog is owned by Officer George L. Sargent, who keeps him at his stable on Merton street.

It seems that Constable Harris was passing the stable when he stopped to speak to a man. The dog sprang at him, fastening his teeth into the flesh of his right hand and penetrating to the bone.

"The Revival Needed" will be the subject of the sermon at the Old North Unitarian church next Sunday morning at 10.30. The public is invited.

ANDOVER NEWS

MERRIMACK 1. ANDOVER 0.

Merrimack with a greatly strengthened team gave Andover supporters a jolt on the Andover grounds Saturday afternoon and after an hour and a halfs' playing retired visitors by one goal. From the start the visitors played a hard strong kicking game which paid. There was very little science exhibited. Merrimack scored twice in the first half half and Andover once but Merrimack was allowed the only goal, according to Referee Pollock's rulings, which at times in the second period almost led to a small riot. Such exhibition of refereeing as that given Saturday will soon spoil the game.

The second half was almost entirely in Merrimac's territory and Andover scored once but this point was also disallowed. Time and again Andover attacked the visitor's goal, but Campbell gave a marvelous display of goal keeping and kept his record clean. His saving of a penalty kick was a feature. For the winners McCluskey, Clark, Paton, Smith and Campbell played a strong game. Andover seemed to have an off day especially the back divison which played very poorly. Capt. Anderson worked hard for his team. The fourth line did not combine well and the followers of the game are wondering why Welch was left off the team to make way for a much inferior player in E. Anderson. The team:

The Food Value of a Soda Cracker

You have heard that some foods furnish fat, other foods make muscle, and still others are tissue building and heat forming.

You know that most foods have one or more of these elements, but do you know that no food contains them all in such properly balanced proportions as a good soda cracker?

The United States Government report shows that soda crackers contain less water, are richer in the muscle and fat elements, and have a much higher per cent of the tissue building and heat forming properties than any article of food made from flour.

That is why Uneeda Biscuit should form an important part of every meal. They represent the superlative of the soda cracker, all their goodness and nourishment being brought from the oven to you in a package that is proof against air, moisture and dust—the price being too small to mention.
